

Anna Piela is a visiting scholar in the Department of Religious Studies at Northwestern University in Evanston, IL. In 2010, she was awarded a PhD in Women's Studies by the University of York, UK. She has previously worked as a research consultant with the Muslim Women's Council, Bradford, UK. Her new monograph, titled Wearing the Niqab: Fashioning Agency among Muslim Women in the UK and the US, is out this year. She has recently published an article about the niqab as piety-in-practice in the Journal of American Academy of Religion. She is currently working on a research project on religious trajectories of Polish female Muslim converts in the UK and Poland and serving on the steering committee of the Islam, Gender and Women unit at the AAR.